

Vetiver

Propagation

Slips :

The plant has a bushy nature and forms clumps during its growth period. The clump is formed by a number of small units known as slips. These slips are used for planting. While preparing the slips for planting, fibrous roots and leaves are trimmed.