

Radish

Irrigation

The irrigation cycle depends upon season, type of soil and amount of organic matter present in soil. The first irrigation is given immediately after sowing. Depending upon the planting season and the available soil moisture, radish may be irrigated at 10-12 days interval during winter and 5-6 days interval during summer.